

Aircraft classification post-strike

Aircrafts intact

Damaged aircrafts

Selection method

I believe that the damaged aircraft that I've selected can be told apart by looking at the outburst next to the aircraft itself, meaning that if the airstrip is not immediately darker next to the plane than it's possibly due to parts of the planes laying on the airstrip and reflecting the radar waves. Planes intact have much smaller signatures and the airstrip is visible right away. That was my main method of telling the two classes apart.
